

COTTON CROP SURPLUS TO BE CARRIED OVER BY SOUTHERN BANKS

FINANCE PLANS TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEMPHIS MEET

Georgia Banks Ready To Assist in Financing Movement To Bolster Market, Glenn Says.

FARM SITUATION TOLD BY OWSLEY

Speaker Declares 20 Per Cent Carry-Over Necessary With Cut in 1927 Acreage.

Georgia banks will cooperate with bankers of other southern states in plans to finance and carry over a substantial percentage of the cotton crop produced this year, according to a statement made Friday by T. K. Glenn, president of the Atlanta and Lowry National banks at a meeting of the Atlanta Clearing House association at the Federal Reserve bank.

After the session Mr. Glenn stated that a meeting of bankers from all parts of the south will be held next week in Memphis to form plans for relieving the cotton situation as it now exists. He said Atlanta clearing house banks would wait plans announced at that meeting before taking any action in the matter.

Mr. Owsley urged that one-fifth of the cotton crop be carried over and urged bankers to adopt a plan which would provide for financing the carry-over. Mr. Owsley said a plan had been adopted in Texas to carry 25 per cent of the crop until conditions are improved.

Crop Estimate Grows. With announcement of the government estimate Friday, giving an additional 800,000 bales to previous estimates and making a total estimated production for 1926 of 16,667,000 bales, the cotton market fell off on Friday.

In his talk to the bankers Mr. Owsley said the south "has made its usual mistake and had produced a million more bales of cotton than the world markets could absorb. He said the present crop will not bring enough money to pay bankers what they have advanced on the crop.

Mr. Owsley said a remedy would be provided if banks would arrange to carry over one-fifth of the crop. He said the country bank must finance the farmers to be held in Memphis next week before taking definite steps in the matter of carrying over one-fifth of the crop.

Other speakers at the conference held Friday were United States Senator Walter F. George, Governor Clifford Walker and J. E. Conwell, president of the Georgia Cotton Cooperative Marketing Association.

Constitution Food Advertisements Will Rectify This Home Difficulty

When Dad suggests that the entire family go to a restaurant for dinner it means that He is not getting the meals at home that he would like; and when Mother makes the suggestion it means that she is depending entirely upon her own intuition as to the means, and she is out of ideas.

There is a happy solution to this dilemma: Note the grocery, market and produce advertisements in The Constitution this morning. They are an inspiration to the woman who must select and purchase the food for a family.

The long list of delectable dainties and substantial articles of food will suggest combinations that will delight every member of the family. Prices are quoted that make purchasing easy, and the opportunity is given to save money.

Candlesticks Made in Rome Are for Queen

Queen Marie, of Roumania, Orders Work of Roman for "Memory Room."

Constitution Bureau. Rome, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—Hand-made iron candlesticks forged in the royal palace of Bucharest, and no less authority for it is given than the written word of Queen Marie of Roumania herself. It is not improbable that she will come here to Rome to see the candlestick maker.

Several months ago when Roumania's queen wrote of her "Room of Memories" in the royal palace and described it in a syndicated article, W. A. McCormick, of Rome, wrote to her royal highness and inclosed photos of candlesticks made in his little shop on the west end of the lower Oostanaula river bridge.

That was not the first time that the Roman had written to the Roumanian queen, and he had received answers to previous letters. When the mails

GANGS OF CHICAGO OBJECTS OF PROBE FROM WASHINGTON

Department of Justice Used in Striking Blow At Cicero, Wicked Little Suburb.

BY EARL J. JOHNSON. Chicago, October 8.—Chicago's Uncle Sam, who refused to interfere when the western metropolis was in the midst of one of its spasmodic crime outbreaks last winter, has had a change of heart. The federal government is now the prime mover in a new drive against gangsters and their underworld brethren whose exploits have given the city such a black name.

Working through the department of justice, the United States struck first at Cicero, the wicked little suburb which had sold out to beer runners. Seventy-five citizens of that community, some 60,000, including the mayor, police chief and numerous other powers, have been indicted for a huge conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Now the government has turned to Chicago proper and it is learned that more than 150 members of the police department will be hit by a sweeping investigation into the booze traffic which justice department agents are completing. This would be the largest single police shakeup this country has ever seen since 79 policemen were sent to prison from Cincinnati two years ago for protecting bootleggers.

The evidence which United States Attorney Edwin A. Olson will take before a federal grand jury reveals an intricate alliance between criminals and the police, with both getting immensely rich at the expense of the inevitable ultimate consumer of liquor. One document which Olson will present to the grand jury is a statement by Patrick H. O'Donnell, attorney for numerous beer runners. This declares that 300 policemen are on the regular payroll of the Genna Brothers' alcohol ring alone. Another document is signed by Charles Police, "payoff man for the Gennas."

COOLIDGE ORDERS GOVERNMENT AID IN COTTON RELIEF

President Discusses Situation in South With Secretary Jardine and Secretary Mellon.

ADDITIONAL CREDIT WILL BE EXTENDED

Senator Robinson Urges Emergency Fund of $30,000,000; 16,627,000-Bale Crop Is Latest Estimate.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES. United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, October 8.—President Coolidge has directed two of his cabinet officers, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, to turn their attention to relief of southern cotton farmers who have encountered a depressing situation because of the sharp drop in prices due to overproduction.

The president went over the situation with Mellon and Jardine at the cabinet meeting Friday after a series of developments here had brought this acute farm problem, the only considerable blot on the general prosperity, directly before officials. Among other things, an estimate issued by the department of agriculture placed the yield at 16,627,000 bales, which is $17,000 more than was estimated a few weeks ago in the September 16 report.

Liberal Credit Policy. Government aid, it developed, will take the form of a liberal credit policy and encouragement of efforts originating among bankers and growers in the cotton belt to withhold part of their crop and to reduce acreage.

Mellon told the president that he was assured by officials of the federal reserve board that there will be no difficulties in extending credit. It was pointed out by the president's spokesman Friday that there is no credit difficulty now in the south as there was in 1921, but that the difficulty seems to be a lack of coordination.

Efforts will be made, the white house said, to coordinate buying and storing and supplying credits so as not to force a large amount of cotton on the market, which will link up with the program now being formulated by southern bankers to divert part of the crop to warehouses.

Jardine pointed out to the president that cotton is one of the crops that lends itself most easily to storage, and in a letter made public Friday, the secretary of agriculture said that he did not consider a large carry-over.

10,000 CHINESE STARVE TO DEATH

Wu-Chang Is Declared City of Horrors Since Siege by Cantonese Began Early in August.

Hankow, October 8.—(AP)—Ten thousand persons have died, most of them of starvation, in the horror city of Wu-Chang since the Cantonese Red army began its siege at the end of August. The figures are those of Chinese officials. No white men could penetrate the barred buildings, within which thousands succumbed in secret misery.

Five hundred coffins have been shipped to Wu-Chang to bury those trampled to death or drowned in the frantic effort to board boats to take them across the Yangtze to Hankow and safety.

Failing in their efforts to carry Wu-Chang by direct attack, defeated in hand-to-hand fighting in the city's streets with its northern army defenders, the Cantonese at a safe distance maintained a war of attrition—starvation, their weapon.

NOT RACES FEATURE END OF FAIR TODAY

Chief Executive, Scores of Georgia Editors and Others Spend Friday at Lakewood.

AWARD OF SUTLIVE CUP IS FEATURE

Today Will Bring Fair to Close After One of Most Successful Weeks in History.

Governor's day and press day, Friday, established a fourth daily attendance record for the Southeastern Fair this year and prospects Friday night were for the closing and final day, today, would see an all-time record established, with the combined attractions of all the amusements and educational features that have drawn thousands the preceding seven days and, in addition, the first automobile races to be held in Atlanta since May.

More than 100 Georgia editors and members of their families were guests of the Southeastern Fair association Friday.

About 1,000 free tickets to the fair were dropped Friday over Atlanta from airplanes in appreciation of the attendance of Atlantans at the fair on Wednesday, Atlanta day. Half of the tickets were for use Friday, while the other half are good for admission today. Considerable scrambling was experienced in the rush for the passes boards as they fluttered from above.

In observance of Press day, the William Green Sutlive trophy, donated by the managing editor of The Savannah Press and won by The Atlanta Georgian for notable service to the state during the past year, was formally presented to F. A. Wilson, Lawrenceville, publisher of The Georgian, by Ernest Camp, president of the Georgia Press Association.

Announcement that a trophy for the best mechanical appearance presented by any Georgia paper during the past year will be presented by Hal M. Stanley, corresponding secretary of the press association, was made at the Sutlive trophy presentation exercises.

The Southeastern Fair association tendered a luncheon in honor of the editors on the fair grounds at 1 o'clock at which Oscar Mills, executive vice president of the fair association, cordially welcomed them and expressed the fair association's appreciation of their support, to which he said the notable success of the fair this year is largely due.

Before turning the case over to the jury, Judge Mack told the jurors they could bring in three kinds of a verdict: Both guilty, both innocent, or one guilty and the other innocent.

Neither Daugherty nor Miller could be brought to trial on the bribery allegation because that had run the statute of limitations.

The defendants are charged with conspiring to defraud the government by serving of their best services in allowing release of $7,000,000 in unpaid assets of the American Metal company.

Sudden Change in Plans.

The case was swung into its final phase today by a sudden change in plans caused by the expressed desire of the jury to return a verdict before Sunday. A report that the jurors had requested that the case be expedited so they might attend

Chest Planning Clean-Up Of All Needy Cases Here

CITIZENS ASKED TO REPORT URGENT CASES

In an effort to reach every case of need in Atlanta before the opening of the Community Chest campaign on October 22, two weeks hence, Hugh M. Willett, chairman of the complaint and appeals committee for the campaign, Friday issued an appeal to all Atlantans to report all cases of need to the committee for immediate investigation and such treatment as facts warranted.

Reports made to Mrs. J. W. Payne at campaign headquarters, telephone 3110, will be answered immediately by volunteer workers in automobiles lent to the chest for the purpose and citizens reporting cases are urged to request that applicants for assistance wait until the volunteer workers arrive to take the case in charge.

"Inevitably in an undertaking of this magnitude we have cases where, because of lack of funds or for other reasons, persons have not received the kind of attention they thought they deserved. The desire of the committee is to work out, if possible, a sure method of seeing that such people are given sympathetic attention and at the same time to make sure that the public can be given actual facts as to the real facts after it is too late.

FATE OF MILLER AND DAUGHERTY IN JURY'S HANDS

No Decision Reached After Two Hours' Deliberation in Cases of Former U. S. Officials.

JURY TO RESUME SESSIONS TODAY

Three Kinds of Verdicts Possible, Judge Declares in Charge Lasting More Than Two Hours.

New York, October 8.—(AP)—The fate of Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, charged with conspiracy against the government they served during the presidency of Warren G. Harding was placed in the hands of a jury tonight and a verdict will not be returned until morning.

The jury took the case at 9:43 o'clock and at 11 o'clock, when no verdict had been reached, Judge Mack ordered that the jurors retire for the night and return to the jury room at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. For the night they were permitted to go under guard to a hotel but were told they could deliberate in the jury room as long as they liked before retiring.

At 11:55 o'clock the jury signified its readiness to retire and was marched from the Federal building to a waiting bus.

That they had not yet reached a decision was indicated by the fact that a request was made that additional exhibits be taken to the jury room in the morning.

Two Hours for Charge. Judge Mack completed his actual charge by 9 o'clock, two hours after he started, but the remaining time before the jury filed out was taken up by suggestions of counsel, some of which the judge added to his charge and some of which he refused.

The charge in the main was a straight forward statement of the difference between bribery as a crime of itself, with which the defendants were not charged, and conspiracy with bribery as an inducement, which was the charge against them.

During the judge's charge the defendants sat calmly on opposite sides of the counsel table, Miller chewing gum methodically and Daugherty lying back in his chair, a handkerchief covering one eye, inflamed by a cold and with the other eye closed. He seemed asleep to the casual observer, but that he was paying attention was evidenced by the fact that he opened his uncovered eye each time his name was mentioned.

Before turning the case over to the jury, Judge Mack told the jurors they could bring in three kinds of a verdict: Both guilty, both innocent, or one guilty and the other innocent.

The case was swung into its final phase today by a sudden change in plans caused by the expressed desire of the jury to return a verdict before Sunday. A report that the jurors had requested that the case be expedited so they might attend

MAN WHO TERRORIZED TENNILLE IS KILLED; COMPANION WOUNDED

'I've Deserted Gilded Cage Forever,' Peaches Declares

BROWNING SAYS HE'LL NOT CRAWL

BY JACK DOLAN. (By Lensed Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, October 8.—For the first time since the dove of peace pecked its way out of the Edward West Browning love nest, the famous lovers to-day locked horns in public statements.

Goaded by the declaration of his wife, born "Peaches" Heenan, that she is "absolutely through with him," the millionaire real estate man launched into a tirade against the little blonde school girl he married last April.

"Get this," he cried, "I'm not a school boy to crawl on my hands and knees to any woman. If overtures looking to a reconciliation are to be made, they'll have to come from the other side."

While her middle-aged "daddy" was ranting, Peaches was reclining in her sheltered retreat, adding to her story of their domestic difficulties. She fingered her acid-scarred face as she spoke.

"Browning never spent a cent to find out how I got those burns," Peaches said petulantly. "He used to say to me: 'I don't want your burns to get all healed up and disappear. When you get old and wrinkled, I'll love you just the same.'"

Peaches took this pose of Browning's seriously—and took it to heart. Her arms are burned and her chin and neck, marred by the ugly blemishes left there when she came in contact with vitriolic acid, while resting in her mother's home from a soiree with Browning just before their marriage.

If the true facts of this burning ever become public Peaches never will write them. For on this matter Peaches is almost inarticulate.

A new reason for their separation was advanced by the realtor's bride. "He didn't want me to be out in the sunshine," Peaches said, exchanging a few knowing nods with her busom mother. "He wanted me to stay in a flat all day while he worked, and I'm a young girl and I couldn't stand it. I was a bird in a gilded cage, but the cage wasn't so gilded after all."

Philadelphia, October 8.—(AP)—General John J. Pershing broke the silence he has maintained for more than a year to publicly sound warning to-night that the army has been reduced to a point "below which we cannot go without most serious results."

Speaking before the military order of the world war, the commander of the American expeditionary force, told his one-time soldiers that the world "is not yet free from jealousy and covetousness," and that the situation at home now and in the future demands maintenance of a highly-developed "nuclear" for national defense.

Only a "vociferous minority" is opposed to such a program, he said, adding: "There can be no earthly justification for saving a few million dollars a year in the army during peace, if as a consequence we must spend many billions in an emergency in an attempt to make up deficiencies."

"The difference between an adequate and inadequate system is not sufficient to warrant the risk. There is a point below which we cannot go without most serious results and we have reached that point."

The general departing for a discussion of the army referred to what he described as an "unusual condition of lawlessness" throughout the country. "It is not to our credit that an unusual condition of lawlessness exists in our country today," he said. "The lawless criminals escape the law and go unpunished. Officials elected by the people fail in the enforcement of the law."

Must Demand Change. "How long this will continue depends entirely on the people themselves. We may as well be warned of our fate unless good citizens rise up and demand a change."

"The busy lives of present-day Americans too often absorb their thoughts to the exclusion of that consideration of the obligations of citizenship upon which a safe and sound government under the constitution rests."

The general also appealed to his audience not to forget "that the basis of our government is the community" and the citizens "are directly responsible for the manner in which law and order are preserved."

ENLISTED STRENGTH BELOW AVERAGE. Washington, October 8.—(AP)—The army's enlisted strength has fallen today to 110,845 men, $405 below the authorized strength of 111,250.

The reduction was attributed to the war department directly to the recruiting stop order which became effective September 15 and was issued to avoid a heavy threatened deficiency in funds appropriated by congress for pay and subsistence during the current fiscal year.

Receipt of reports that the strength had dropped below the 110,000 figure fixed by the department as the average to be maintained until next July to prevent a deficiency in funds led to a modification of the recruiting order.

As the situation now stands, limited recruiting will start Monday and be so regulated as to insure as nearly as possible the 110,000 average until July, which is the end of the fiscal year.

FARMER IS SHOT AFTER RESISTING OFFICERS ALL DAY

Thomas H. Hartley Killed Instantly and Companion Injured After Pair Terrorizes Town.

INQUEST ORDERED TO BE HELD TODAY

Merchants Close Stores as Men, Heavily Armed, Officers Say, Take Possession of Streets.

Tennille, Ga., October 8.—(AP)—Thomas H. Hartley, 40, a farmer, member of a prominent Washington county family, is dead and his alleged companion, John Lindsay, is in jail after the two, according to sheriff's deputies, had terrorized the town of Tennille from early morning until late this afternoon. Hartley was killed by pursuing officers who challenged the man to halt, but who refused to accede.

The killing took place in the public square. After the man was killed the driverless car careened across the road and plunged into the windows of the Tennille Drug company, badly wrecking the building.

Hartley made his first appearance here at a local bank where he is said to have had words with T. W. Price, cashier. Officers said that Hartley had been drinking and that he threatened Price's life, if he would come out of the office.

Following this argument Hartley left for his home, three miles away and returned heavily armed, according to the officers. This time, they said, Lindsay was with him.

They rode up and down the main street of the town, according to the officers, cursing and threatening the lives of people. Merchants of the town closed their doors and kept under cover, it was stated, and until Hartley was killed and Lindsay arrested, no one appeared on the streets.

The officers found a pistol strapped to Hartley's body, they reported, and also stated that they found a box of steel-jacket shells and considerable ammunition in the automobile.

Lindsay is in the Washington county jail with a serious wound in the shoulder. He is being held on "numerous charges," the officers stated. The coroner has ordered an inquest to be held in Sandersville tomorrow.

YOUTH IS KILLED IN STREET ARGUMENT

Montgomery, Ala., October 8.—Ralph Croxson was shot and killed here tonight in a street argument with two other youths over the ownership of local ice plants.

George Peoples has been arrested and charged with murder. The police say Peoples, becoming excited, pulled a gun and fired at Croxson five times. Four bullets entered his body.

AIR MAIL POUNDAGE SHOWS BIG INCREASE

A daily average of 105 pounds of air mail has been carried by the Florida Airways planes operating on the federal route between Atlanta and Miami, via Macon, Jacksonville and Fort Myers. This record more than doubles any past 30-day period since inauguration of the service April 1, according to a report of the Airways corporation made public here Friday. The air mail service, inaugurated in Atlanta on September 15, when the federal air line was opened north from Jacksonville, completing the 815-mile route, operated during September at an efficiency rate of 98 per cent, the main delay in schedule being the day following the Florida hurricane. During the 13 days of operation in September, the air mail poundage for Atlanta was 497 pounds and 8 ounces, a daily average of approximately 40 pounds. The receipts for Macon, which dispatched its first mail on September 21, was 65 pounds for the four days. Miami led the list of six terminals with a poundage of 773 pounds and 11 ounces, Jacksonville being second with 665 pounds and four ounces.

thought was his automobile, this afternoon, stopping to talk to a friend. It was another man's car.

Roy Crutchfield, railroad man, owner of the automobile who arrived a minute later and discovered the heavy, strange looking bag, drove to police headquarters and called the police.

"I know it holds liquor and I don't want to have a thing to do with it," he said.

Officers found the name of Porter on the bag and concluded that it contained sample bricks, from the Porter yard.

They finally succeeded in opening it and found $300 in $1 bills and $80 in small change.

Then they began a hunt for Porter, and five hours later, he appeared at police headquarters to report his loss and was presented with the money bag and contents.

WAGNER ASSAILS PROHIBITION LAW

New York, October 8.—(P)—Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner informally accepting the democratic nomination for United States senator tonight attacked the Volstead act and said he was in favor of its abandonment.

"I am opposed to the law and a system which the government is spending hundreds of millions of dollars to change the personal habits of a free people," he said.

"I am opposed to a law which falsely declares that to be a crime which our hearts tell us is not morally wrong. I protest against this waste of public funds which results only in the enrichment of the bootlegger, the corruption of the public service, disrespect for all law and an utter failure to bring about real temperance."

Justice Wagner attacked the prohibition stand of Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., his republican opponent. He said the senator now was posing as "an enemy of Volsteadism but he neglected even to mention it in his formal speech of acceptance." The senator, he pointed out, had voted to pass the Volstead act over the veto of Woodrow Wilson. He also made a general attack on the senator's congressional record.

HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER RUNS DOWN AGED MAN

W. F. Nunn, 67, of 434 Washington street, was the victim of a hit-and-run automobile, as he was crossing Pulliam street at East Fair street, late Friday afternoon, according to Grady hospital records, where the aged carpenter was taken for treatment. Mr. Nunn was found lying in the street with a deep laceration on his head and several bad bruises about the face and shoulders, by a woman whose name was not learned by police. He was placed in a light delivery truck belonging to C. E. Kay, of Decatur, Ga., and taken to the hospital. The truck was driven by Walter Wood, of 328 Fraser street, negro truck driver for Mr. Kay, who assisted the woman in placing the injured man in the truck.

According to information given to hospital attaches, the man was knocked more than 15 feet by the automobile and the driver increased the speed of the car after the accident.

CLEAR, FAIR DAY FOR TECH-TULANE GAME PREDICTED

Continued fair weather with slightly increasing temperatures is predicted over the week-end, according to F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist. Temperatures Friday ranged from 52 as a low mark to 76 during the early afternoon.

Temperatures today are expected to range between 54 and 73 degrees, it was stated, and indications point to another cool, clear day Sunday. "It will be fine football weather today," Mr. von Herrmann stated Friday afternoon, "just the sort that will please thousands of fans who expect to see the Tech-Tulane game this afternoon."

ENVOY'S RETURN LINKED WITH PACT

Paris, October 8.—The return of Ambassador Henry Berenger to Washington depends solely on ratification of the American debt agreement, friend of the ambassador says.

While Berenger refrains, both of officials and publicists, from intervening for ratification, as he thinks the question is one that rests essentially with the government and parliament, it is known that he long has been active privately to secure favorable action on the agreement. His personal efforts have been used to explain the need for debt accord between France and the United States.

Berenger's commission as French ambassador to Washington comes up for renewal in November. It is certain that if the agreement is hanging fire at that time he will refuse to return until it is acted upon favorably.

The ambassador is satisfied with Premier Poincare's decision to submit the agreement to parliament at the earliest possible date, thus clearing the way for rapid solution, which the government believes will have a favorable reaction on exchange.

NEW U. S. FORMULAS RETAIN WOOD ALCOHOL

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, October 8.—Wood alcohol is retained in new formulas announced tonight to be used in denaturing industrial alcohol after January 1 to prevent its being used for beverage purposes.

Following recent criticism of the use of such a poisonous ingredient as wood alcohol, chemists in the prohibition unit sought a substitute but thus far they have been unable to see their way clear to dispense with it.

The two new formulas provide for 4 per cent wood alcohol. They replace several old ones which contained various amounts. In one 10 per cent was required formerly and in two of the most used, two per cent was required.

Thus the percentage is reduced in one case and doubled in two others. The new formulas also will contain an ingredient alcohol that smells and probably tastes like oil drainings from an automobile engine. This concoction is heralded as the most awful offense to smell and taste that the government chemists could brew. Already the proud compounders have given it the unofficial name of "crankcase highball."

Both formulas replace those widely used for anti-freeze solutions and a variety of other commercial uses. A number of other highly specialized formulas without wood alcohol are issued in comparatively small amounts for perfumes and other more delicate uses which for technical reasons preclude the presence of wood alcohol.

A pharmacist told the United States that he regarded four per cent wood alcohol as dangerous, taken internally. He said even one-half of one per cent might be dangerous.

Dr. Doran said that the total production of industrial alcohol last year was 87,500,000 gallons of which only 3,500,000 was pure grain alcohol. The balance, 84,000,000 gallons, was grain alcohol denatured—that is made unfit to drink.

TERRELL COUNTY BOYS WIN COTTON PRIZES

Dawson, Ga., October 8.—(Special.) The Terrell county boys who had exhibits of cotton at the state fair in Savannah, were well rewarded for their trouble, for, according to County Agent Gibson, who is one of the active officers of the fair, they won all the blue ribbons on individual and collective displays of cotton. If their yields are in line with their exhibits they will win some handsome state prizes when their records have been completed.

The cotton exhibit created much interest and at every hour of the day numbers of visitors at the fair visited the results of club efforts in this county.

Those who made exhibits at Savannah were Charley Brown and Beatrice Jones.

Fifteen or 20 of the boys have cotton and corn exhibits at the Southeastern fair in Atlanta this week and of them will have exhibits at the Macon exposition when it opens.

Members of the board of directors of the new bank are J. W. McWhorter, B. M. Edgar, G. W. Parker, C. M. Ferguson and C. O. Maddox.

Baptist Foreign Mission Board Bans Evolution

Richmond, Va., October 8.—(AP)—The foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist convention was on record today as rejecting every theory, evolution or other, which teaches that man originated in any way or came by way of a lower animal ancestry.

A resolution adopted by the board said that it accepted the action taken by the Southern Baptist convention in Houston, Texas, last May. This resolution said: "This convention accepts Genesis as teaching that man was the special creation of God, and rejects every theory, evolution or other, which teaches that man originated in or came by way of a lower animal ancestry."

The board adopted a statement to the above which said in part, "that foreign mission board did not wait for action by the convention—but in 1916 and 1919 the board itself took action which afterwards was ratified by the convention, commits every missionary of the board, first to the fundamental elements of our Christian faith; second, insures the teachings and practice of the distinctive orders and ordinances of southern Baptists, and third forbids any alliances which will compromise these."

ALLEGED SLAYERS OF AUTOIST SOUGHT BY NEWARK POLICE

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New Brunswick, N. J., October 8. James (Killey) Cuniffe, and John (Bunn) Rodgers, New York desperadoes, sought for the killing of Frank Kearney, Newark lumber dealer, and his son, Robert, are hiding, badly wounded, somewhere in Newark.

Such was the belief which today sent detectives on a renewed hunt through the underworld districts of that town.

Three witnesses, officers, declared, saw Cuniffe and Rodgers, or their pals, who loitered near Hadley Field, J. J., as they raced back to their hiding places after the double slaying and a bailed attempt to loot the United States air mail.

Kearney and his son were shot Monday night when they refused to surrender their automobile to the bandits, whose own car, loaded with shot guns and ammunition, had run into the ditch as they waited for the air mail truck from New Brunswick to pass.

FLORIDA PUBLISHERS PLAN BIG MERGER

Daytona Beach, Fla., October 8.—(AP)—Merger of the Associated Dailies of Florida, the Florida State Press association and the South Florida Press association into an organization to be known as the Florida Publishers' association, will be completed Saturday at the triple convention of the three associations now in progress at the Clarendon hotel here.

Friday each of the three organizations held separate meetings. At these meetings the Florida State and South Florida associations voted for the merger, while, it is said, the Associated Dailies will take similar action Saturday, after which the three organizations will hold a joint meeting to formulate plans for the new body. The publishers association will represent the press of the state in all its dealings outside the state of Florida and will handle internal problems peculiar to all classes of publications.

COWETA TEAM WINS IN STOCK JUDGING

The stock judging team from Coweta county scored the largest number of points in the judging contests at the Southeastern fair Friday, thereby winning the trip to the International Live Stock show to be held in Chicago in December.

The team is composed of D. R. Lee, Carl Strong and Roy Smith, who were trained by D. F. Hungerford, farm agent in Coweta county.

Other teams winning in the judging contests were Franklin county, second; Polk, third; Bibb, fourth; Tallapoosa, fifth; Hall, sixth; and Colquitt, seventh.

The judging contests were held at the fair Thursday and Friday, the teams being composed of winning members of club boys in a number of Georgia counties.

G. V. Cunningham, of the State College of Agriculture, head of the club work in Georgia, expressed the opinion Friday that the Coweta team will rank high in the stock judging show, the teams being made up from state winners all over the United States.

S. K. Cannon, member of the Franklin county Boys' club, was awarded the highest honor in poultry judging at the Southeastern fair, scoring the highest number of points.

He will be given a trip to the Chicago exposition by the Poultry Breeder's association of Georgia.

"Nothing that has happened in the republican primaries will appreciably dampen congress, says the Outlook.

Council Seeking To Ally Labor With Churches

New York, October 8.—The federal council of Churches of Christ in America is attempting to develop sympathetic relations between the churches and the labor movement, according to Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the council, and the Rev. Charles S. MacFarland and Samuel Melroe, general secretaries.

In a joint statement issued Friday, they point out that the proposal made last summer by the council that the Detroit churches should invite speakers to discuss the social and spiritual aims of the labor movement was "in accord with a well-established policy of the federal council."

Under auspices of the council, an interdenominational meeting will be held in Detroit Sunday to discuss the relation of Christianity to industrial life, with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as the principal speaker.

STAND UNCHANGED ON PROHIBITION, DECLARES BORAH

Washington, October 8.—Senator Borah, of Idaho, has written a letter to Senator Edwards, New Jersey wet democrat, denying he has changed his stand against prohibition or the so-called prohibition referendum. This was in reply to a statement by Edwards intimating Borah had switched for political reasons.

PASSAGE OF RADIO BILL PREDICTED BY WHITE HOUSE

Washington, October 8.—(United News.)—President Coolidge is confident that congress will agree on a bill for regulation of radio soon after it meets in December.

The final measure probably will be a compromise between the White bill passed in the house and the Dill bill enacted by the senate, upon which no agreement could be reached in conference before adjournment of the last session, it was said at the white house Friday.

President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Hoover favored the White bill, which placed regulation under the department of commerce. The Dill bill provided an independent radio commission similar to the interstate commerce commission, divorced absolutely from the commerce department.

NEGRO ELECTROCUTED AT GEORGIA PRISON

Georgia State Farm, October 8.—(AP)—Less than 30 days after the crime Prince (Preacher) Williams, negro, paid with his life in the electric chair at the state farm here today for attacking a young white girl of Emanuel county. The father of the 14-year-old girl was a silent spectator in the death chamber.

Williams confessed his guilt before going to the chair, Judge B. H. Dunaway, superintendent of the prison farm, said. At first the negro had denied any knowledge of the crime.

Only one "shot" of current was necessary for the execution, just after the noon hour.

SHERIFF IN FLORIDA PROBING FLOGGINGS

Dade City, Fla., October 8.—(AP)—Sheriff Hudson, of Pasco county, tonight was continuing his investigation of a report that two men had been flogged Wednesday night by a party of 15 or 20 men in the Elfers-Odesa section of this county.

The men, W. Walton and H. Gordon, reported the affair to the sheriff. They told him that they were called from their house late that night, carried into a wooded section and then flogged severely.

Thought his case was hopeless Resinol cleared away pimples in a week

Lexington, Mass., March 5.—"I had been suffering from shaving pimples on my neck for years and, I believe, had tried everything under the sun for them without avail. One day on a friend's advice, I purchased some of your Resinol Ointment and was astonished at the quick results. After a week's constant use, the pimples disappeared completely, leaving the skin clear and fresh. I had thought my case was hopeless, so you can readily see why I was overjoyed at this cure! You can be sure that henceforth you have one more loyal booster for your product." (Signed) Fred J. Fox, 8 Bloomfield St.

Finals In City Golf Tournament This Afternoon

Four Star Golfers Reach Semi-Finals; Two Rounds Today

BY C. F. THOMPSON.

The annual city championship golf tournament of Atlanta enters the semi-finals at the East Lake Country club this morning, with the final match to be played this afternoon. Gene Cook, L. R. Hunter, Dr. Mallory Jones and A. S. Martin are the semi-finalists in the championship flight.

Gene Cook and L. R. Hunter will probably go into the finals, with Cook given somewhat the edge to win the city championship.

Playing an incomparable game that placed him one under even fours for 15 holes, Gene defeated Chick Ridley on the 15th green, 4 up. Gene had taken a lead of three holes on his opponent in the first three played, and while this was at one time cut to one hole, Ridley fought from behind all the way against a man who shot five birdies in 15 holes.

The two qualifying low scorers, L. R. Hunter and L. M. Cutter, won and lost their morning matches, respectively. Cutter being shown into the consolation flight by Archibald Martin, who also triumphed over H. G. Jewell in the afternoon.

Hunter finished his two rounds by the same victorious score, 4 up and 3 to play. In the morning round his victim was M. J. Baker and in his nightcap it was Harry Ansley.

P. G. Hanahan, Jr., went into the consolation flight after the morning round, when Gene Cook took the match on the 11th green, 8 up.

Chess Lacomarino, who qualified with the same medal of Gene Cook, 28, took the measure of Al Bailey in the morning round and was in turn measured by Dr. Jones in the afternoon play. Jones' nerve-racking consistency was the downfall of Chess, who lost 3 down and 1 to play, after he had beaten Bailey 1 up during the morning.

T. J. Finley, in the fourth flight, put up one of the gamiest fights against John Wellborn that the tournament has produced. After being 5 down at the 14th tee, he threw the match into extra holes and won on the 19th, taking six straight holes to win.

Ansley had easy-going in the morning round, turning in a 65 win over Thomas Walsh, 2 up. In the afternoon he downed Robert McLarty, 5 and 4. Ridley won from J. Epps Brown, 8 and 1, while little Will Gunn found the going too tough for him against Jewell, and lost 1 and 2.

In the consolation, M. D. Baker, J. Epps Brown, L. M. Cutter and Al Bailey were the four who experienced the feeling for which the flight is named, namely, the consolation of winning.

Baker beat Walsh, 4 and 3. Brown eliminated Hanahan with a 4 and 3 result, and Cutter, probably the only man in Atlanta that can drive a golf ball over 200 yards on his tee and do so consistently, 4 and 2. Will Gunn, Al Bailey had to go to the 19th hole.

Bulldogs Are Ready For Big Clash Today With Yale Eleven

BY MARCUS BRYANT.

New Haven, Conn., October 8.—(Special.)—After three previous unsuccessful attempts against Yale in successive years, the Georgia Bulldogs arrived in New Haven today for another determined effort. A short, snappy workout in the immense Yale bowl was taken to loosen up the kinks of the long journey. Three full teams engaged in a spirited signal drill following a rather lengthy punting and forward passing drill on the wonderful turf of America's greatest football arena and are ready for the game.

Of the Georgia team, Nash and Morris, left end and tackle respectively, are in poor condition, and neither is very likely to start. This will leave rather a weak flank on Georgia's left defense, but with Curran and Bryant ready to fill these gaps there is still hope of a sturdy defense.

To Use Same Lineup.

The Georgia starting lineup will, in all probability, be the same as the one that faced Virginia last week, with Forches at center, instead of Smith. Smith is suffering with a severe bruised hand, and will hardly be used except in dire necessity.

Georgia's open game, the one that received so much favorable comment from eastern critics two years ago in the 7 to 6 Yale victory, is being feared by the Yale coaches. The whole practice session for the northern bulldogs was devoted to the development of a defense against forward passes, and unusual success by Yale's reserves employing Georgia formations seems to augur well for Georgia's chances of scoring at any time during the game. Yale's opening lineup for the Georgia game is very similar to that of last year, with two changes in the line and but one change in the backfield. Captain Rummel at quarter, Cotter and Kline played three full quarters last year, with Foote, a former second string player in the place of Al Hitt, who wrought such havoc with the Georgia line in 1925.

In last week's game against Boston

MONROE A. M. BEATS G. M. A. CADETS, 38-0

Monroe, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)

Friday the Monroe Aggies wrote the first chapter of a story, the final chapter of which may be the G. I. A. A. championship. G. M. A. furnished material for the plot, and when the war was over, the Aggies rode the crest, 38-0.

Coach Barron has a super-abundance of select material, and has wrought wonders with his men in these few weeks of practice. It might be said with conviction that the Aggies are potentially able to capture the championship.

For, yesterday, the Aggies showed the stuff. The defense is spotty, being featured by individual brilliance, and individual weakness. The Aggie offense, though, is something that is good enough to write home about.

There is a quartet of youngsters in that backfield which will do some college mightily proud in two or three years. It is well balanced, aggressive, cooperative. Each member logs the backfield and most important, gives all the aid possible when the other fellow is lagging.

The big gun in the line is Captain Tom Jones, who will make some college and army about his job in two years from now. He is rugged, and fast; has a good reach and a good head. He is temperate and takes his football seriously.

Early in the first quarter the Aggies rammed the ball across for marker. Good end running, punctuated by the fierce bucking of Jones, served to carry the ball on a continuous drive from midfield to the goal line.

In the second quarter, the Aggies got lazy and G. M. A. once more evened the score.

The second half brought a deluge of touchdowns from the Aggies; inspired by their coach during the half, Pat Barron pulled the stellar play of the afternoon in this period. He ran, practically unaided, 60 yards for a touchdown on a kickoff. "The ball came high, he nabbed it and started to run. Using consummate skill and judgment he weaved his way among the G. M. A. tacklers, until at last he broke into the clear."

A few statistics are available. The Aggies made 21 first downs, G. M. A. registered five. Deason made two of the touchdowns, Jones one, Tally two, and Barron one. In the fourth quarter Coach Barron substituted an entirely new team.

G. M. A., the opposition, played well. It was the Aggies' clear superiority which made the difference in score. The Cadets had words of fight, but were simply out-classed by greater speed and plunging power. Campbell, of the Cadets, distinguished himself until he was forced to retire in the third period on account of injuries.

Y. M. C. A. CAGE TEAM STARTS 1926 PRACTICE

The first team of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. basketball team starts serious practice Thursday night, trying out new principles given them by the coaching staff. Scrimmages will be held twice a week on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7:30 p. m.

In Thursday's workout lots of pep was shown, some of the veterans of last season displaying midseason form. The work of Captain Wilkinson, Pinkie Bynum, veteran guard, and Cordell, of the "Y" Reds, was good. Mason, a former Tulane star, and Guthrie, formerly of Citrus, showed excellent form, as did Brock and Nichols, of the Sunday School leagues.

Managers Stacey Darrington and Arlie Hitt are working out a hard schedule, but are not ready to make a definite announcement. The Atlanta Y. M. C. A. has prospects of one of the strongest teams in its history and the managers are looking the best teams possible.

CHATTANOOGA PLAYS SMITHIE SQUAD TODAY

Gabe Tolbert and a bunch of Tech High Smithies left the Terminal station Friday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock on their first invasion of the season, going to Chattanooga for a game with Chattanooga Central High.

The Smithies were slated to arrive in the Mountain City late last night, and after a good night's rest to take a morning workout.

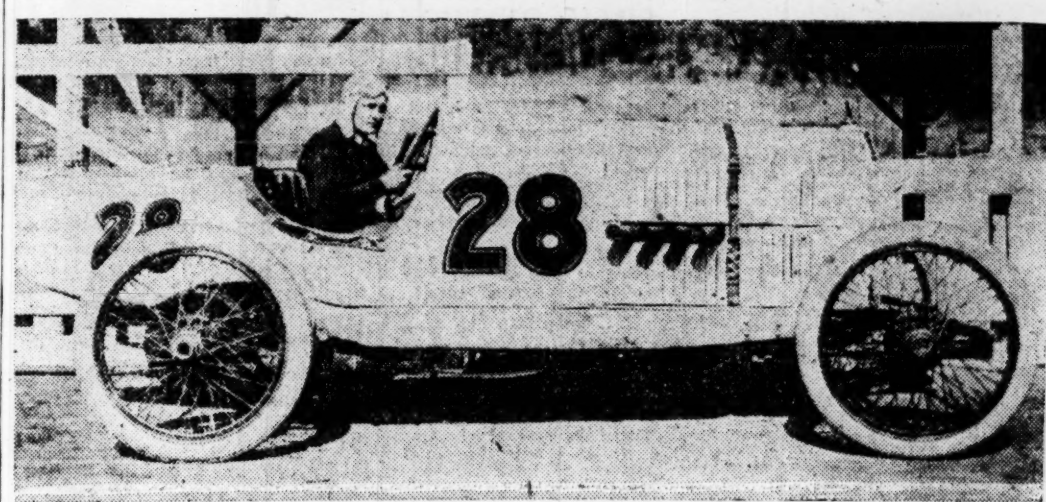

Last week, the big Gold team won a game from Chattanooga City High, 24 to 7, and the Smithies are favorites in the game on foreign soil today.

None of Tech High's big guns have been silenced in practice during the past week, and Coach Tolbert will be able to give the Chattanooga team something to worry about.

"Big Chief" Waugh, who broke loose for several spectacular runs in his last matinee performance here, will most likely start at quarterback, and Bardwell, Oliphant and Johnson will probably be on hand to try to subdue the mountaineers.

Following is the probable lineup for the Smithies: Williams, center; Maddox and Rasmussen, guards; Fountain and Wade, tackles; Davis and Gifford, ends; Waugh, quarter; Oliphant and Bardwell, halves; Johnson, full.

SEEKS HONORS IN RACES TODAY

With his fast car shown above, Phil Shaffer, diminutive amateur race driver, will enter the big automobile races to be held today on the Lakewood oval as a climax to the big Southeastern fair. Shaffer only recently joined the professional ranks but has caused much comment with his skillful driving.

Six Intra-Conference Tilts Are Scheduled By Southerners Today

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Twelve of the Southern conference's football teams play intra-conference games tomorrow while five squads have gone north for important inter-conference games. The remaining teams will play outside the conference in the south.

Georgia Tech, with a team much improved since last Saturday over the previous week's showing, is expected to put up a good battle at Grant field against Tulane's Green Wave, which played Missouri to a scoreless tie on a muddy field.

Georgia faces Yale in the Yale bowl in the feature of the east, while Maryland plays Chicago, last week's victor over Florida. Kentucky meets an old rival in Indiana and Princeton will see the Washington and Lee Generals in action. Virginia Polytechnic far into the north to play Dartmouth at Hanover, Vt.

Another southern college takes on an interconference opponent when William and Mary grapples with Syracuse on the latter's gridiron.

Alabama plays Mississippi Aggies at Starkville, Miss., in another big game. Clemson plays North Carolina State at Clemson, Florida will entertain Mississippi University at Gainesville, Fla. Louisiana State faces a hard game with Tennessee and North Carolina plays South Carolina at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Auburn goes outside the conference to play Howard at Birmingham, Virginia meets Lynchburg at Charlottesville, and Virginia Military institute plays Roanoke college. Vanderbilt will play Henderson-Brown at Nashville.

Alabama, having decisively defeated Vanderbilt last week, rules a slight favorite over the Mississippi Aggies, whose strength is more or less unknown, her two games not having given any indications of her strength. Clemson, though North Carolina State will meet on about even terms, both having been badly beaten last Saturday. Florida is given the advantage over "Ole Miss" in their annual battle due to the splendid showing against Chicago last Saturday, while Arkansas was drubbing Mississippi.

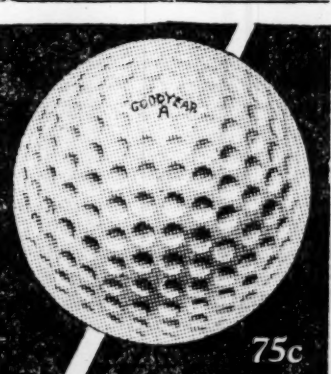

Tennessee, by virtue of a smash-

Soldier Grid Squad Plays at Fort Sunday

The Fort McPherson football team will play the Sunset team Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Fort McPherson.

The Sunset team is composed mostly of high school graduates and players and will not average over 160 pounds. They are led by Captain King, former Commercial High school center.

The soldier squad is a much heavier outfit and should have little trouble with their opponents.

What's back of that extra tough cover

In twenty-five years of tire making, Goodyear developed the toughest tread rubber known to the art. Out of that experience has come the ability to make an amazing Goodyear cover for the Goodyear Golf Ball. This tough cover protects and conserves the other qualities of the ball, which are accuracy and long flight.

Many Fast Machines To Compete in Races; Girl To Race Time

With a hard track to work on, crews kept busy all night on the Lakewood oval assured a damp, fast track for the auto races which climax the Southeastern fair today, in a card packed with extra features and filled with promise of well matched races.

Always one of the best tracks in the country, the Lakewood oval is great for today, track experts pronounced last night.

The Southeastern fair sweepstakes, a three-heat event open to the entire field of starters, will be the feature event and should furnish some thrillers that would literally "stand the fans on their ears."

Girl to Try for Record.

Miss Joan LaCosta, world's champion girl race driver, who won thousands of friends here in May when she defeated the veteran Louis Disbrow in a match race, will attempt to smash some of the records she has set this summer, in an added feature.

Since she last raced here, Miss LaCosta brought the mile track mark down to 49 seconds flat, then to 45.4, and seems confident that even greater speed is possible here.

The match race between Irvin "Putty" Hoffman, veteran dirt track pilot and Wisconsin champion, and Ray Claypool, the white-haired youngster, who has raced here several times, should turn out one of the best two-car duels in the fair's history. Both are rated top drivers and with exceptionally fast machines, should clash in a great speed battle.

James J. Lynch, the Montana cowboy and daredevil, who thrills the stands by his feats on the front bumper of a speeding automobile, will be an added feature for today.

The complete program follows:

CHATTANOOGA PLAYS SMITHIE SQUAD TODAY

Gabe Tolbert and a bunch of Tech High Smithies left the Terminal station Friday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock on their first invasion of the season, going to Chattanooga for a game with Chattanooga Central High.

The Smithies were slated to arrive in the Mountain City late last night, and after a good night's rest to take a morning workout.

Last week, the big Gold team won a game from Chattanooga City High, 24 to 7, and the Smithies are favorites in the game on foreign soil today.

None of Tech High's big guns have been silenced in practice during the past week, and Coach Tolbert will be able to give the Chattanooga team something to worry about.

"Big Chief" Waugh, who broke loose for several spectacular runs in his last matinee performance here, will most likely start at quarterback, and Bardwell, Oliphant and Johnson will probably be on hand to try to subdue the mountaineers.

Following is the probable lineup for the Smithies: Williams, center; Maddox and Rasmussen, guards; Fountain and Wade, tackles; Davis and Gifford, ends; Waugh, quarter; Oliphant and Bardwell, halves; Johnson, full.

COASTAL HIGHWAY CONTRACTS LET

Work of paving the Coastal plain highway from Chatham to Darien will begin within fifteen days following letting of contracts for this work which cost $1,285,000, it was announced Friday by the state highway commission.

Contracts for the paving work were let and signed Friday.

The contract for paving 22.7 miles of the highway was let to the Davis Construction company of Atlanta for $302,810 and the contract for paving 10 miles of the highway from Ways to Darien was let to the Newell Contracting company, Birmingham, Ala., for $232,428.

Under terms of the contract the work must begin within 15 days and must be finished in 200 calendar days, exclusive of Sundays. Aggregate contracts let Friday were the largest ever let in a single day by the state highway commission. When the work is finished the highway will be paved from Savannah to Brunswick, already being paved.

The contract was signed by Stanley R. Bennett, member of the commission, who had agreed on the figures with John R. Phillips, associate member of the commission. John N. Holder, chairman, did not take part in letting the contract as he is on a thirty day leave of absence granted so he could make the race for governor.

Part of the money for this road will be paid by the state highway department, part by the government and part with funds obtained by a bond issue floated by the Coastal Plain Highway association it was announced.

Borglum Plans Grant Memorial In Black Hills

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., October 8.—(United News.)—Gutzon Borglum is preparing to make real his dream of a colossal memorial to heroes of American history. He would carve it out of the stone of Rushmore mountain in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

The noted sculptor, whose greatest disappointment was his inability to complete the Confederate memorial on the face of Stone mountain in Georgia, today declared that actual carving of the South Dakota project awaits only a formal commission from the state.

Borglum said the preliminary arrangements had been made to begin chiseling the face of Georgia Washington, the first of four gigantic likenesses of heroes.

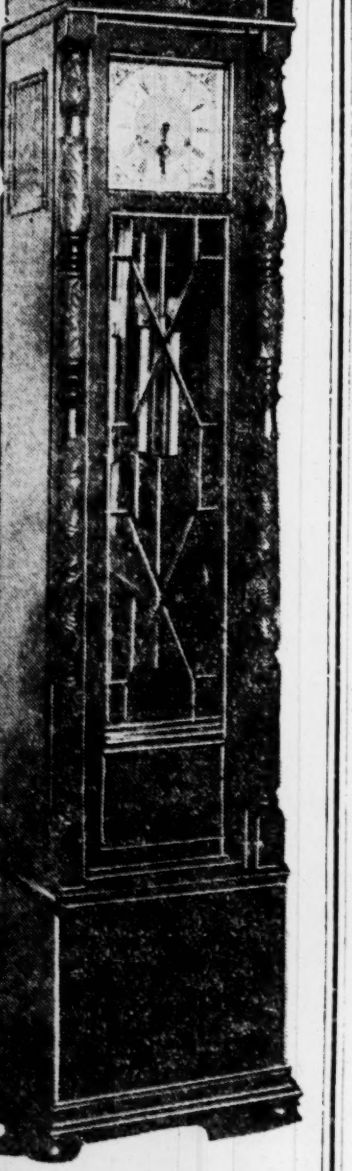

"If I am given official authority to go ahead, I judge that the first figure will be unveiled next July—on July 4 is my suggestion—and I have reason to believe that President Coolidge would attend the ceremonies," the sculptor said.

In addition to financial support from the state, Borglum is depending on contributions to fund the funds for the project. A special board of distinguished South Dakotans, he said, will administer the financial details.

Divine Healer To Speak

Mrs. P. Harrell, of South Dakota, well-known lecturer, will speak at the Apostolic assembly hall, corner Washington and Fulton streets, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in a meeting for women only. Mrs. Harrell will speak on divine healing, it was stated.

BEAUTIFUL CHIME CLOCKS GROWING IN POPULARITY HERE

Stately chime clocks that announce in musical tone the passing hours are becoming more and more popular in the better homes of the south.

The above photograph shows one of the magnificent tubular chime clocks on display at the store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., at 381 Peachtree street.

This particular clock is a reproduction of a Louis XIV design, beautifully carved in solid Honduras mahogany. Contains a splendid mechanism with wonderfully soft and musical tubular chimes, which strike on the quarter, half and hour.

The firm of Stephen Philibosian Inc. is noted for its distinctive furniture at exceedingly low prices.

Its policy of selling only for cash makes these low prices possible.—(adv.)

Child Is Coming To Lead Little Guy Is Called By Reunited Parents Stillmans To Path of Peace

BY GEORGE FRY.
(Copyright, 1929, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
(All rights reserved.)

New York, October 8.—"And a little child shall lead them." So begins the last chapter of the love story in which "Bud" Stillman, son of the former head of the National City bank, tells the world that he is to pursue his matrimonial career with Lena Wilson, the servant in the house, regardless of the longnettes of society.

For little Guy Stillman enters the picture to provide the final link in the reconciliation of his parents, and to bring together a household torn asunder by a social hurricane. About the sturdy little chap, now 7 years old, a new Stillman home is to be built, and a new family circle formed.

Mrs. Stillman, at her Grand Anse estate, gave that information today, at a time when old and solid business friends of James A. Stillman were nodding approval of the son's match with the Scottish-Canadian daughter of a woodchopper's widow. Men who said, when the Stillman divorce suit was started, that such things did not go with finance, today agreed that a plain love match did.

Particularly did they approve the statement of Bud today that it is of no consequence to him what society thought of Lena Wilson.

He was asked what he thought her reception by society would be, and said:

"I don't see that it matters at all what society thinks of Lena. I am not personally interested in society. After we have married and settled down and have friends, I shall not care whether they are in society or not so long as I like them."

"No, I guess I don't care one bit whether New York society accepts us or not."

Up at Grand Anse, Mrs. Stillman made plans for the new family home which brings little Guy into the picture.

Guy never has met James A. Stillman since the day the father charged that the child was really the son of Fred Beauvais, Indian guide.

Within three weeks, Miss Ida Oliver, his governess, will bring Guy to New York to pass the winter in the beautiful home Stillman has prepared on exclusive Park avenue.

Guy comes to put the final touch to as nice a story of love as ever grew from an ugly and forbidding hate.

PRESIDENT ORDERS AID FOR COTTON

from one season to the next as a "misfortune." The best way to avoid wide price fluctuations, he said, "is to be in a position to carry continuously an ample reserve, sufficiently large to absorb any surplus from one or more good seasons and to supplement the shortage of several bad seasons."

"We are now in position to begin the creation of such a reserve. We should accept the opportunity and make the most of it."

This letter was addressed to Edward A. O'Neil, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, of Montgomery, who wrote recently for Jardine asking for aid.

Extension of Credits.

Extension of additional credits will be through the intermediate credit banks, in the regular way. At the present time, these banks are lending money freely to cotton cooperatives, but there are not a great number of farm cooperatives, so that many farmers are out of reach of the credit thus supplied. Farmers cannot borrow directly from the credit banks for other than production purposes, but must form agricultural credit corporations for borrowing.

It is expected that such corporations will be formed now where it is believed necessary. Jardine explained that they can be established with a minimum of $10,000 local capital, raised among business men, farmers or other citizens. Ten times the amount of the capital can be borrowed for periods of six months to three years at moderate interest rates.

The secretary of agriculture said, however, that credit facilities through the ordinary banking channels appear to be adequate.

Urges Emergency Fund.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic floor leader, urged, after a call on President Coolidge Friday, that an emergency fund of $30,000,000 be supplied from the federal reserve fund to aid cotton farmers.

It does not appear likely that the government would go beyond the regular channels of the intermediate credit banks, the federal farm loan board has committed $30,000,000 for loans to cotton cooperatives, of which about $7,000,000 already has been loaned.

The estimate of a still larger crop report issued Friday brought forth, fresh criticism of the department of agriculture's reports which have been attacked severely for several months as being far too high. Robinson expressed the opinion that low prices of cotton result largely from this source.

"I am almost convinced that the estimates will have to be abolished as they are not sufficiently accurate," he said.

Representative Black, Texas, democrat, said the estimate for his state was far too high and called upon Secretary Jardine personally and demanded a re-check he made, saying he was positive the government had erred.

CREDIT RESOURCES SHOWN BY JARDINE.

Washington, October 8.—(AP)—Secretary Jardine expressed confidence today that the present and potential credit resources of the country are entirely adequate to meet the requirements of the present cotton crop, however bountiful it may prove.

Replying to a letter from Edward A. O'Neil, president of the Alabama farm bureau federation who had described the cotton situation as grave, the agriculture secretary declared he was content that the situation was largely due to panic conditions which, he hoped, would be temporary.

"The basic economic conditions of the country are sound, and cotton producers must soon realize that the intrinsic value of this crop has not changed in the past few weeks," wrote the secretary. "The people of the world need all the cotton that we can produce. We are in a position to supply their needs in an orderly manner. Cotton is not a perishable commodity. We have the necessary facilities for storing the crop for months, or it need be, for years and ample credit to carry it. Cotton in storage is probably the soundest basis for credit that we know."

Bankers Cooperating.

"It is my earnest hope that the present stampede may be checked while the major part of the crop remains in the hands of the farmer. The bankers and many other business agencies of the south are loyally co-operating to restore confidence, and I assure you that the department of agriculture is actively supporting this movement."

"Other agencies of the federal government are also available. Credit facilities through the ordinary banking channel appear to be adequate, but we have in addition, if needed, the services and resources of the intermediate credit bank. It was for just such emergencies as the present one that these banks were established. Those in charge of them have assured me that they are ready to do everything in their power. At present they are loaning money freely to the cotton cooperative, and they are prepared also to extend credit to other cotton farmers."

"If this additional source of credit is needed, it may be drawn upon by creating local financial credit associations. These can be established

GLOVER WILL ATTEND MAIL CLERKS' DANCE

W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general, with A. A. Fisher, general superintendent of railway mail service, and C. G. Goodloe, new superintendent of the fourth division of railway mail service, will arrive in Atlanta this morning to attend the dinner-dance tonight on the Ansley hotel roof to be given by the United States mail clerks in this division.

Large delegations of mail service employees from all parts of the south are expected to attend the banquet, which is being given in honor of Mr. Glover. Reports from Nashville, Birmingham and Charleston indicate that many delegates will attend the function from those points, it was announced Friday night.

President Collins, of the Railway Mail Clerks' association, from Washington, and Division President Chilton of Nashville, who are completing a tour of several cities in the division will end their trip with a visit to Atlanta tonight, and will attend the banquet.

F. C. Naylor, who succeeded R. J. Harris as superintendent of the fourth division of railway mail service and who recently resigned on account of ill health, will attend, it was announced.

All postal employees in Atlanta and vicinity have been invited to attend. Several officials are expected to make short talks, including Mr. Collins, Mr. Chilton, Mr. Glover and Mr. Goodloe.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Young Whitman and Albert Hall Lakin, of New York, which will be solemnized with unusual dignity and beauty, at high noon Saturday at North Avenue Presbyterian church on Peachtree street, will be witnessed by a large and fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends, centering the attention of society upon one of the most important and prominent weddings of the fall season, and numbered among the out-of-town guests are Mr. and Mrs. Frederic O. Lakin and Marshall Warren, of Emporia, Kans., and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Walker, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Claiming the interest of a wide circle of friends will be the ceremony uniting Miss Christine Sinclair and William Naramore Parsons, Jr., in St. Mark's church Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, the event to be an outstanding social affair. The home ceremony of Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Coffin and Joseph Whitner takes place at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride-elect's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Armstrong on Habersham road, the occasion assembling immediate relatives and close friends.

The Tech-Tulane football game played on Grant field will interest the college, all eyes to focus on the two lovely sponsors, Misses Katherine Howell and Sarah White, and the heroes of the Golden Tornado. The game will be followed by tea-dances at the Chi Phi chapter house, while the Beta Theta Pi fraternity will christen the new chapter house in Peters Park with a house-warming, which in reality is an informal reception and dance. The Biltmore tea-dance will probably assemble the largest number of football enthusiasts meeting at this social entertainment, to discuss the game and dance away the pleasant hours.

Concluding the week-end gaieties for the older set will be the dinner dances at the Piedmont Driving and East Lake Country clubs, where many visitors will be central figures at the parties.

Misses Ruth Weller, Phyllis Wilkins, Mildred Coleman, Mary Frances Hippe, Lottie McNair, Edna Emma Thompson and Tommie Lou Paine, a group of attractive autumn brides-elect will be complimented at bridge parties, luncheons, and trossau teas.

Girl Scout Troup Celebrates Birthday.

Group No. 12 of the Atlanta Girl Scouts, known as the Troup of Merry Men, recently celebrated its third birthday with a dinner party at Camp Civitania, to which members of the organization, scout officers and honorary members were invited. The entire menu of the dinner was planned, prepared and cooked by the hostesses.

Dinner was served in Thornton hall, which was elaborately decorated for the occasion with autumn flowers and leaves. The huge stone fireplace was festooned with bright leaves, and on the hearth stood a great jar of old blue filled with goldenrod.

Elizabeth Skene, the toastmaster, explained the derivation of the troop name, which, she said, came from the story of Robin Hood, and as the members of the troop are taking up the study and practice of archery, each member of the organization has adopted a member of the merry band to be her own particular character.

Joseph Newberry told the history of the troop, and Mrs. Frank Holand, Atlanta Girl Scout commissioner, and Mrs. H. L. Parry, retiring local director, made brief talks. Other speakers were Mrs. J. C. Throver, Mrs. Grace Hayward, Miss Rosemary Stevenson, Miss Jane Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, Mrs. J. F. Heard and Frank Loveland.

Handmade place cards held the following names: Ruth Peck, Louise Wesley, Virginia Heard, Caroline Williams, Aldora Hudson, Margaret Bates, Margaret Anstey, Emily Walker, Anabelle Hancock, Lyndie Sharp, Anne Wynn Fleming, Miriam Fleming and Emily Carlton.

The beautiful fashion costumes are furnished by the E. J. DuBose company, many of them being imported models and all of them especially selected for those wearing them.

Mrs. Newton C. Wing has selected for the picture part of the program, a Harold Lloyd comedy, an "Our Gang" picture, review of current events and an exciting chapter of "The Great Circus Mystery," and matinee committee feels that never in Atlanta's history has so much entertainment been provided for one small dime's admission.

Less for Phones Than Tobacco

One of the curious bits of statistical information recently brought to light by a telephone cost engineer is the fact that the American public pays out more each year for the tobacco it smokes and chews than it does for the telephone it uses.

Vogue's-Eye View Of The Mode

It was Ibsen who said that a stage should be a room with one wall removed, meaning that the informal and intimate air of every-day life amidst inconspicuous surroundings constituted the special medium for the realization of striking dramatic effects—a realistic substitute for life itself.

Well—we thought—what is good for Ibsenesque Drama is good for a Voguish Fashion Show. This Vogue's-Eye View of the Mode, to be presented by members of the Junior League in costumes made of silks and other materials from our stocks, will be purely informal and home-like.

You will see fashions cut from materials immediately available, over Vogue Patterns on sale in the store. A Pragmatic Fashion Show. That is to say, it is practical—it works, and you may have such fashions for yourself and children—even make them yourself!

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

VELASQUEZ PICKED CORTES TO COMMAND HIS SECOND AND STRONGER EXPEDITION TO THE UNKNOWN LANDS TO THE WEST. LATER, APPARENTLY, VELASQUEZ CHANGED HIS MIND ABOUT HIS CHOICE AND WOULD LIKE TO HAVE DEPOSED CORTES, BUT CORTES WAS AN ENERGETIC, RESOURCEFUL, HEADSTRONG MAN AND MANAGED TO EQUIP THE EXPEDITION AND SET SAIL, TAKING WITH HIM ALVARADO WHO HAD BEEN ON THE PREVIOUS EXPEDITION. CORTES MANAGED TO SECURE SIXTEEN HORSES WHICH WERE OF INESTIMABLE VALUE IN THE CAMPAIGN. HORSES WERE ALMOST UNKNOWN AT THAT TIME IN THE SPANISH SETTLEMENTS.

CORTES HAD THE BEST AND HEAVIEST ARTILLERY THEN KNOWN AND AN ABUNDANT SUPPLY OF AMMUNITION. WITH HIM WENT 110 SAILORS, 537 SOLDIERS, 16 CAVALRY, 13 MUSKETEERS, 32 CROSS-BOWMEN. THE OTHER SOLDIERS WERE ARMED MERELY WITH A SWORD, LANCE AND SHIELD.

IT IS DOUBTFUL IF THE SPEECH THAT HISTORIANS HAVE PUT IN HIS MOUTH WAS EVER MADE BY CORTES FOR HE WAS A MAN OF ACTION RATHER THAN ORATORY. HIS SOLDIERS KNEW WHY THEY WERE THERE. THEY WERE THERE TO FIGHT AND TO FIGHT HARD FOR GOLD. IF THEY ACHIEVED GLORY, ALL WELL AND GOOD, BUT THE HALO OF GLORY HAD LONG SINCE DIMMED IN THE EYES OF THE SPANISH CONQUERORS. Slams Salaams and By Louise Dooly

WOULDN'T you know that it would take a French youth to prove that "make-up" is a virtue? "Embellissement" is the title of a new book by Mme. Lucie Delarue-Mardrus, published in Paris. "Make-up" she considered woman's best friend, she knows that by so doing, they will practice two of the virtues: humility, by admitting that they are not perfect, and charity, by doing their best to give happiness to those who will look at them.

AND this brings up a kindred theme: "Can it be that middle age is coming into fashion? Youth—triumphant youth—has reigned so empirically since the war that the mature generation has not even denied its ascendancy. They just deplored or wept it.

But—how are we going to interpret the latest signs and portents? A recent survey, much in the news, found that grandmothers who sit by the hearth and knit are as defunct as the hearth is; the one to be found now only in old pictures, and the other as the occasional revival of an antique.

The grandmothers, on the day of the survey, were out driving their own sports cars, or having their hair bobbed, or going to tea dances, or conducting political meetings; everything but resigning themselves to old age.

AS for mere maturity—well, just consider in a few outstanding instances how it is crowding youth.

Henna of Roumania, a royal princess, 18, and a beauty, is approaching our shores with her mother, and already coming events are casting a peculiar shadow before her. Is Henna getting any of the limelight except as her middle-aged, but beautiful and interesting mother's daughter?

A mere girl like Gertrude Ederle had to swim her way to English Channel on the front page, while in the case of Lady Astor, the mother of six big children, it is the exceptional days on which she fails to attain this most desirable publicity position.

There's current fiction. Don't halt the novels deal with that advanced stage among married people when one or the other or both get the idea they have outgrown each other?

To bring the matter down to cases—Most of us, when we have tried heretofore to picture ourselves "the face that launched a thousand ships" vision.

N DAYS OF OUR FOREFATHERS

Women Prepared Their Own Medicines

The wise pioneer women learned to gather, in woods and fields, the remedies the Indians used. From the rafters of colonial houses, hung great bunches of dried roots and herbs.

From these, in times of sickness, the busy mother brewed simple and powerful remedies.

From roots and herbs, Lydia E. Pinkham, a descendant of these sturdy pioneers, made her Vegetable Compound. The beneficial effects of this dependable medicine are vouched for by hundreds of women who tell of returning health and energy.

Mrs. Wm. Kraft of 2323 Vinewood Ave., Detroit, Mich., saw a Pinkham advertisement in the "News" one day and made up her mind that she would give the Compound a trial. At that time she was very weak.

"After the first bottle," she writes, "I began to feel better and like a new woman after taking six bottles. I recommend it to others and always keep a bottle in the house."

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

alized a youthful success, when the infatuation of Paris began. And yet the reading world of late has completely accepted a new ideal of Trojan Helen—John Erskine's, who chose the period in Helen's "private life," when she was the mother of a grown daughter, to make her the heroine of his best seller.

Maybe the trend is due to a mid-life age complex; authors who have been authoring long enough to know their way around are pushed so by the influx of successful writers of the teen age that their nervousness manifests itself in their theme. What over the reason, it's there.

"LETTING the face" is a process which grew out of, and belongs entirely to the present era of "old youth."

A woman with grown daughters has just won the national woman's golf championship.

And middle-aged women now when they marry again, don't they dote on showing their power by the acquirement of youthful husbands?

Even fashion, which has for nearly a decade not the flapper to the fore, and its whole inspiration into clothing her, is again beginning to admit the existence of the matronly figure and to cater to its curves.

BUT listen, ladies: here is an arresting thought, suggested by Paul Sunday, author of the New York Times review, of the beauty book by Mme. Delarue-Mardrus, which I quoted at the start.

"I am impressed," says Monsieur Sunday, "with the common sense of Madame Delarue-Mardrus. Although she advises us energetically that women fight against their congenial imperfections, as well as against those brought on by old age, she also counsels them not to persist indefinitely, and to know how to yield when the time comes."

In other words, she finds a virtue, too, in willingness to grow old gracefully.

WOMEN don't change much with all their progress. I judge this from the number who have told me they read Sylvia Thompson's "Hounds of Spring," on my recommendation in this department that I could guarantee its readers buckets of tears!

They say skirts are coming down in the spring.

If they do, it is to be hoped they will come down keplank! The opposite process—when they went up—was so gradual by inches—that it kept all the women as busy doctoring skirts as they used to be—inversely—with a houseful of growing girls.

If acquired characteristics are transmitted, the coming generation of girls will be born putting the ends of their hair into place.

IS the dangerous sex really as forward looking as it professes to be? Here's another Arctic season over, and not a woman has flown over the north pole. Considering the way they dress (or more temperate climes, it certainly can't be fear of taking cold that keeps them back. And now with permanent waves and air planes, they

Black Butterflies

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

A TEST.

The Salome dance suggested Richard Strauss to Kitty and she ran through part of the piano score of the opera, switching from that to Debussy's shimmering "Voiles" and De Falla's "Nights in a Garden of Spain" and then to Wagner, while her friends smoked and listened.

David looked around the circle of faces. Miss Maxwell and Bryant who obviously loved music, were in a state of supreme content. Chai was sending a series of widening smoke rings toward the ceiling. Even Normand was sober now and, at Kitty's request, eventually got his violin and played with her. At times the music stopped while one of the listeners called attention to pet phrases and demanded their repetition. Occasionally Jim and Kitty argued fiercely over the merits of old and new composers, while Normand kept up an extemporaneous accompaniment to the debate on his violin.

David's nightmare fell away and his heart lightened. It seemed incredible that the inspired artist at the piano was the same girl who an hour before had been doing that Bacchanalian dance at such reckless risk to her fellow guest. He was so grateful for Kitty's music that his voice shook when he thanked her.

Kitty, now merely a bony girl with two wisps of red hair in her eyes, nodded comprehendingly. She was used to having music lovers act like that when she had played for them. But she had given Goddard something more than music—something for which, simply and sincerely, he thanked his gods when he found himself alone again in the third floor.

"The Black Butterflies liked you," was the way she put it.

back. She had shown him that, after all, there was more than weakness and rottenness in the Butterflies. She had helped him to understand Dorinda. He saw now why their hostess tolerated the faults of those friends for the sake of the qualities and gifts she admired. Best of all, Kitty had restored his courage. He could go on, into a future vague enough at best without the menacing shapes he had seen there a few hours before.

Somewhere a clock struck one. He must stop thinking and try to go to sleep. But Kitty's playing seemed to fill the little room. He was lapped around by the Fire Music, by Siegfried's love song, by the stirring notes of the sword motive. Blinking into the darkness, he told himself that possibly he, too, had been shown his sword.

On the occasion of their next meeting, which happened to be three days later, Dorinda mentioned to Goddard that he had made a favorable impression on her friends.

"The Black Butterflies liked you," was the way she put it. "They didn't expect to, and they didn't want to, but they did. And they're all sports enough to admit it."

She seemed to attach importance to this tribute, which its recipient was inclined to take lightly. His inner feeling was now an abysmal indifference to the opinions of the Butterflies, combined with a growing fear that their continued existence in Dorinda's circle would prevent any real rebuilding of her life. The memory of Kitty's music was fading. The memory of Normand's dancing remained, with fragments of Bryant's talk and the picture of Normand's figure sprawling on the table. His dislike of these memories and pictures showed him that he himself was much more conservative at heart than he had ever realized. There was nothing of the bohemian about him. He wanted decency and sobriety and the respect of his fellows and the peace of an ordered life. He had not realized how much he wanted these things until he saw them threatened. What would this girl do with him before she got through?

If they had loved each other, he believed they could have worked out together some constructive and successful plan of life, though he admitted that an emotional element entering in might possibly complicate the situation instead of helping to untangle it. It was, the matter filled his mind. Thinking of the recent maneuver of fate, he dimly told himself, was his favorite indoor sport though it brought him to no conclusion and merely intensified his gloom.

For two days he deliberately kept out of touch with Miss Maxwell—he still thought of her as Miss Maxwell—telling himself that a vacation was due him. Besides, she had said something about meeting at first only two or three times a week. If she wanted him she could let him know. But she made no sign. Probably she, too, was enjoying the vacation.

On the second day he sent her a box of chocolates and let it go at that. The morning of the third day, which was Saturday, he telephoned, asking her to dine with him that night and go to the theater. She accepted with enthusiasm, there being no one else within hearing of the conversation; but she also invited him to luncheon, mentioning that she was driving into the country that afternoon to buy a setter puppy and would like his advice on the purchase.

To his vast relief they had luncheon alone, and they also made alone the journey to the country, where Miss Maxwell bought from a dog fancier an adorable and highly pedigreed white setter puppy with tan ears, three tan specks on his nose, and an affectionate nature. He gave the young couple one glance from his amber eyes, decided that they belonged to him, and went peacefully to sleep stretched between them on the seat of the roadster. There he slumbered during a brisk run of one hundred miles through a gathering November haze—a run Miss Maxwell made in a matter of two hours.

"He ought to be called 'Freckles,'" David suggested with an appreciative finger on the tan specks on the puppy's nose. "Freckles" is a darling name for him," Dorinda agreed. "Freckles" he shall be.

She stepped on the gas in her enthusiasm, and the roadster, which had been making only fifty miles an hour, swept onward at sixty. David was not a nervous young man but long before the end of the run he realized that his future would include considerable risk to life and limb. The girl's driving was only six months old, and the risks she took made her companion's hair rise. He showed no signs of this uneasiness, because he saw that from time to time she glanced at him out of the corner of an eye in search of them. More tests of him, no doubt. He was getting rather fed up with tests. Once, when she had nearly ditched the car by rounding a sharp curve without slackening speed, she briefly apologized. He met the apology with a slight nod and an absent stare, as if he had not observed the incident, and he was glad to see that this annoyed her. But she left him safely at the front door of Mrs. Kemp's boarding house at six o'clock, an hour nicely timed to have his advent witnessed by most of its inmates. Both she and he were impressed by the whole-heartedness with which the boarders gave themselves to the spectacle.

He had just time to dress and hurry back to take her to dinner, and as he severely assailed the stubborn wave with his hair-brush he told himself that the afternoon had not been half bad.

"I want to give you that pup," he had said, when he heard the price and realized that it would not exhaust his bank-roll. "You say it's your first dog, so I'd like it to be my first real gift to you. I'll train him for you, too."

She had been very nice about it. He could see that she was really pleased, and she had let him have his way without protest. They dined together before the staring eyes of Grandon's five hundred and played their respective roles rather gallantly. David, indeed, surprised himself. He found it easy to rest his arms on the table and to lean across them and give his companion his whole attention, as he had seen other fellows do when they were so deeply in love they forgot where they were. She was looking amazingly pretty, though rather over-dressed for a young girl. He had been about enough with conservative girls to recognize this difference. She was painted, too—up to her eyes; but, then, nowadays even the conservative girls carried striking color schemes on their faces. Brown seemed the favorite undertone this season, with vivid touches of scarlet. For the first time the thought came to him that it would be rather wonderful to show the world a wife who looked as Miss Maxwell looked—especially as the world wouldn't know she was not a wife after all.

Total bond issues (par value) $8,962,000.

New York, October 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Bonds moved up today with trading moving at a slower pace as accounts were worked out for the week-end. Buying operations were curtailed by uncertainty over the recent action of the stock market and another sharp break in cotton prices, while at the same time the underlying firmness of money conditions remained a retarding influence.

The only outstanding feature of the day's dealing was a spirited advance in the bonds of the Southern Railway system in response to the recommendation of business men for an increased subway fare. Gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded for most of the Trans-Atlantic and Street Railway issues.

Southern and southeastern railway issues, which have displayed marked nervousness over the cotton price situation, drifted irregularly lower on the latest government forecast of the largest crop on record which forced prices down about 84 a bale. France, Italy and Belgium also showed a decline, with the French, German and Belgian Liberty bonds failed to extend their recent gains and in some cases felt the effects of profit-taking. Foreign obligations were most of the day's trading, with fractional advances scored by some of the French, German and Belgian issues.

From the standpoint of new financing, the market was shown in the proposal to market loans totaling about $25,000,000 for the Stines for interest. These are expected at an early date.
